Third party inducements

Dated: 30 June 2026

In connection with the services that GS provides to you, from time to time GS may receive from or provide to third parties minor non-monetary benefits permitted under Applicable Law, including:

(a) information or documentation relating to financial instruments or investment services that is generic in nature or personalised to reflect your circumstances;

(b) issuer commissioned research coverage;

(c) participation in conferences, seminars or training events on the benefits and features of specific financial instruments or investment services;

(d) hospitality of a de minimis value during meetings or those events specified in (c) above;

(e) connected research on an issuer in the context of an issuer's capital raising;

(f) research provided for a trial period; and

(g) such other services and/or benefits that can be considered minor non-monetary benefits under Applicable Law from time to time.